"We're proud to recognize Allison as Supplier of the Year for the second time in four years," said Dan Murphy, President and CEO of Idealease. "We appreciate their customer service responsiveness, ability to forge relationships at every level and willingness to visit our affiliate locations in the field. Allison has become a truly valued partner of our organization."

Each year, members of the Idealease management team and partner representatives evaluate top suppliers based on a range of criteria, including new product development, product quality, customer satisfaction, field and warranty support, and a supplier's ability to meet these criteria on an ongoing basis.

"Allison is honored to receive this award as a result of the exceptional efforts of many of our employees to build a true partnership across Idealease's organization and with their affiliates across North America," said Steve Roberts, National Accounts Manager, Allison Transmission. "Our team has worked hard to deliver on the needs of Idealease and its customers, and we remain focused on continuing to grow our relationship in the future."

Idealease is comprised of over 430 dealer-affiliated locations. The company offers full-service leasing, rental, dedicated maintenance for customer-owned vehicles and innovative fleet safety and compliance services. Idealease operates one of the largest medium-duty fleets in the world.
